

The University of Neuchâtel, Switzerland, invites applications for a position of Full Professor (100%) or assistant tenure track professor (100%) in Sociology

Job description: Initiation and supervision of collective research projects with third-party funding; participation in the research and scientific activities of the Institute of Sociology, the MAPS and the FLSH; organization of scientific events; participation in national (e.g. doctoral training programs) and international scientific networks. The teaching load amounts to 7 periods of 45 minutes per week and per semester (4 for the ATTP). Supervision of PhD and Master dissertations is expected. The position is located within the Institute of Sociology.

The position is primarily oriented towards quantitative methods, with a specialization in the sociology of inequalities (class, gender, age, etc.). A secondary specialization in economic sociology would be an asset. Candidates should be able to teach quantitative methods and the sociology of inequalities and to teach at the Bachelor's and Master's level in areas of sociology beyond their specialization. The candidates' research will be complementary to the research of the two existing chairs (territorial economy and sociology of markets).

Requirements: Candidates must hold a doctorate and have a record of high-level publications and excellent teaching skills. The language of teaching is French. Non-French speakers must be able to teach in French after a period of 2 years.

Starting date: August 1st, 2022, or upon agreement.

Application deadline: The 6th of September 2021

Applications should be submitted on the website www.unine.ch/candis (ref. FLSH-Socio) in a single pdf file. The application should include a letter of motivation, a detailed curriculum vitae describing the teaching and research activities, copies of the titles obtained, a list of publications, an outline of the research and teaching activities envisaged and the scientific vision that the candidate wishes to develop (3 pages maximum) as well as a list of three experts capable of evaluating the candidate's scientific competence. Publications will be requested at a later stage.

Information: Further information can be obtained from the Chairman of the Recruitment Committee, Prof. Olivier Crevoisier (olivier.crevoisier@unine.ch) or from the Dean of the Faculty, Prof. P.-A. Mariaux (doyen.lettres@unine.ch), as well as on the website of the Faculty (<http://www.unine.ch/lettres/home.html>) and of the Institute of Sociology (<http://www.unine.ch/socio/accueil>).

The University of Neuchâtel is committed to promoting diversity among its staff and to offering non-discriminatory working conditions.